My View on Eating in the Classroom

Every place has its own rules, such as traffic rules on the road and classroom discipline. However, there will always be some students who ignore class discipline and even eat in the classroom.

From my perspective, it is not advisable for students to eat in the classroom. First of all, the classroom is a place to study, so it is not appropriate to eat in the classroom. Secondly, eating in the classroom will retain the taste of food, which will affect the classroom for a long time. In addition, eating can also have an effect on other students who are studying in the classroom.

To sum up, try not to eat in the classroom. If the body energy is low, students can choose to eat outside the classroom, which will not affect others, and they will eat more comfortably.
